

Supporting Ongoing Cultural Learning in the Pilbara

Pilbara Aboriginal Health Alliance

A Cultural Competency Training Resource has been developed by the Pilbara Aboriginal Health Alliance (PAHA) to support organisations, services and individuals seeking cultural competency training opportunities across the Pilbara and Western Australia.

PAHA regularly receives enquiries from organisations looking for cultural awareness and cultural competency training. In response, this resource has been created as a general information guide to help people identify training providers that operate across the Pilbara region and broader Western Australia.

The resource lists a range of Aboriginal organisations and training providers that offer cultural competency or cultural awareness programs in different locations and formats, including online and face-to-face delivery.

The intention is to make it easier for organisations to begin exploring culturally informed learning opportunities.

Importantly, PAHA recognises that cultural competency is not achieved through a single workshop or one-off training session. Meaningful cultural learning is an ongoing journey that requires continuous reflection, engagement and relationship-building with Aboriginal people and communities.

Organisations are encouraged to view cultural competency training as part of a long-term commitment to cultural learning and improvement, embedded within workplace practices, policies, and community partnerships.
